SMASH 'EM SAYS MRS. NATION

DEVIL HAS A CINCH ON MEN BUT NOT ON ROCKS AND HATCHETS.

The Old Lady Fires Into the Governor With Such Vehemence That That Functionary is Rattled—Wants Him to Help Her Smash the Saloons.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Carrie Nation today invaded the office of Governor Wm. E. Stanley in the capitol building, and for a solid hour arraigned the chief executive of the State for his failure to close the saloons of Kansas. Then in turn she visited the offices of Attorney General Goddard, County Attorney Nicholas and Sheriff Porter and demanded of each that they close the saloons. A crowd followed her. Mrs. Nation accused Governor Stanley of branding her as a lawbreaker and demanded to know if he had a better method than she of ridding the State of saloons.

"No, I don't think I have," he finally replied. "But what can I do? I am powerless. The law does not allow me to do what I desire. The law gives me no privileges."

"If necessary call out the militia," was Mrs. Nation's prompt reply.

Then the crusader delivered a philippic that caused Governor Stanley's anger to rise. "You can close every joint in Kansas if you will, Governor Stanley," she said, with force, "but you won't. You are a law-breaker and a perjurer." She became more vehement and her voice quivered. She repeated these words of accusation again and again, the words of invective pouring from her with a rush that would not be stemmed.

Finally, the Governor shouted back: "You cannot come here and talk this way to me. You cannot talk to me this way, I say. You are a woman, but I won't stand it. You will have to leave if you cannot ——"

"I am a mother, I am a grandmother and I represent the mothers of the State."

The room was in an uproar. Then Mrs. Nation talked more calmly, pleading with the Governor to aid her.

"You come with me and help smash saloons," she urged. And then she added: "If you won't help us—if you won't help me—I'll go around and I'll smash, smash, smash, Governor. The devil seems to have a cinch on the men, but he has not a cinch on the hatchets and rocks."

Finally Governor Stanley volunteered: "You get the prosecuting attorneys of the different counties to put the joint keepers in jail and I will use my power as Governor to keep them in. I will see that they are not pardoned out."

Mrs. Nation fairly beamed with joy, thanking the Governor, and then forced her way into Attorney General Goddard's private office. We want you to close these joints, these murder shops," she said. She demanded that he remove those officials who neglected their duty in allowing the saloons to run, and when he evaded her direct questions and referred her to the county attorney. Mrs. Nation accused him of dodging. "The Governor and Attorney General are dodging," she said, on leaving, "but there's no dodging my hatchet."

She had lost her wraps and her veil during her raid on the State house. To County Attorney Nichols she repeated her demands, and finally said she wished to swear out a warrant for the saloon-keeper's wife who had attacked her on Saturday night with a broomstiek. Then Mrs. Nation and her train headed for the office of Sheriff P. S. Cook.

The sheriff soon was in a rage, under her scorching attack, and rushing toward a newspaper man in the crowd who had pointed at him, seized the offender's collar and made a motion to strike him. Others interferred. The chief of police happened to be absent from his office and Mrs. Nation harangued a crowd in the street.

A Collision.

A young white boy riding a bicycle this morning ran into a horse and buggy near the court house. The horse was standing still at the time, but on being run into became frightened and started off, with the result that the bicycle got injured and the boy run over. The boy was not seriously hurt.

JUDGE WALLACE STRICKEN

Went Home This Morning and Without Warning Became Unconscious.

Judge Wallace, of Tennessee, who has for a week or two been here with his two daughters visiting his daughter, Mrs. Dr. E. W. Smith, is at the point of death, and his recovery is dispaired of.

This morning he was up town, and on going home, complained of a slight nausea. After he had sat down a short while it was discovered that he had become unconscious. Physicians were called in and quickly made the discovery that an artery in the head had broken and that the escaping blood was pressing down upon the brain. In spite of all that could be done, he never rallied, and it is not now expected that he will. Judge Wallace is nearly seventy-five years old, and has for a long time been prominent in Tennessee.

Death of Mr. Overfield.

The Brooklyn Citizen of the 21st says:

"Robert L. Overfield, formerly deputy internal revenue collector, died at Pueblo, Col., Jan. 17, where he had gone to seek the restoration of shattered health.

"His brother, Mr. C. P. Overfield, was with him at the time of his decease. He was born in Brooklyn, Oct. 7, 1868, and he had always lived in this city. At the time of his death he was connected with the Chrome Steel Company, and had recently returned from Mexico, where he had been several months in the prosecution of the company's business, and for a few weeks, after his return from Mexico, he had been to the Pennsylvania mines in the same employment. While in Pennsylvania he contracted a severe cold, which became more and more aggravated and this was the immediate cause of his death.

"He was a young man of most excellent habits, intelligent, efficient in the discharge of any business or duty intrusted to him, and his integrity was beyond question. He was a churchman, being first connected with St. Peter's Episcopal church, and later with the Church of the Epiphany.

"His death is a peculiarly sad one. He leaves a mother, brother, wife and infant child.

"The funeral services will be held at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. William S. Ball, at No. 139 Decatur street, at 8 o'clock in the evening, January 22nd. The burial will be in the Overfield Cemetery, Meshoppen, Pa."

Mr. W. S. Ball, father-in-law of Mr. Overfield, was one of the first settlers on what is now Arlington street, South Greensboro, and for several years lived in the house now occupied by Judge W. P. Bynum. While here he was a leading light in legal circles, and is well remembered by the older residents.

Changes at the Greensboro National.

As has heretofore been mentioned, Mr. M. S. Sherwood has been elected Secretary and Treasurer of the Sherwood Bobbin Company. On the first he will give up his position as teller at the Greensboro National Bank, to which place Mr. F. C. Boyles has been promoted. No doubt this leaves an opening at the bank for some bright young man.

ARMSTEAD JONES SOLICITOR

APPOINTED TO FILL OUT TIME OF E. W. POU, ESQ.

The Juniors Ask for a Labor Law—A Bill to Establish a Board of Examiners of Barbers—Bill for $1,000,000 Bond Issue.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—A petition from the Junior Order of United American Mechanics against the employment of child labor in factories was presented to the House.

A bill was introduced by Baldwin regulating child labor in factories. It prohibits children under fourteen years of age working over sixty hours per week or working after ten o'clock at night.

Reinhardt's bill to issue one million of bonds to enlarge the insane asylum and increase soldiers' pensions was introduced.

The bill providing that all executions shall be in the penitentiary was discussed earnestly, and finally sent back to the committee.

The bill to ventilate the Capitol was tabled.

In the Senate.

A bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Speight to establish a board of State examiners for barbers and to regulate the occupation of the latter, and to prevent the spread of contagious diseases.

The bill incorporating the Piedmont and Alleghany Railway passed its third reading.

Jones Appointed.

Mr. Armstead Jones was today appointed solicitor to fill the unexpired term of E. W. Pou, Esq., who was elected to Congress last November.

Goes to Chicago.

Mr. W. F. Blount returned last night from an extended trip over Eastern Carolina and South Carolina. He leaves tonight for Chicago. Mrs. Blount is in Fayetteville.

The Security Life and Annuity Company of Greensboro has been organized. The Legislature granted a charter for this company to do business as a life insurance company along lines of the old line companies. This is an organization that needs more than a mere notice or thought at the hands of the people of North Carolina. It should be upheld and patronized by every man in the State who wishes to see his State expand and prosper. The men who are back of this new enterprise have made a success of whatever else they have undertaken and with the support of the insuring public The Security Life will succeed. The State sends out millions of dollars each year for insurance and while this company will not get all or a great part of it, it is a step in the right direction and will keep thousands of dollars at home to develop home cities. Success to this new company and may it be an honor to the State and a power for good.—Concord Tribune.

PATERSON MURDERERS.

Three Sentenced to Thirty Years Each and One, Who Plead Guilty of Assault, to Fifteen.

By Wire to The Telegram

Paterson, N. J., Jan. 29.—Judge Jonathan Dixon today sentenced McAlister, Campbel, and Death to thirty years each, and Kerr to fifteen years, for causing the death of Jennie Bosschieter by the use of knock out drops. A new trial will be asked for for the first three, and Kerr will seek a pardon. All trace of animosity toward Kerr on account of the separate trial has vanished since his plea subjected him to a sentence with the others. The father and brother of the dead girl were present, also the wife of Death, who believes her husband innocent.

In passing sentence Judge Dixon said, 'Poor, poor Jennie Bosschieter, you showed her no mercy, you left her by the wayside after robbing her of her womanly virtue. There can be no mercy for you."

Cotton Market Calmed.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 29.—The early cotton market was nervous and irregular, with a fear of a repetition of yesterday's sensational developments. January was the disturbing element. The English cables were about as expected, showing a decline of 1 to 2 points for futures, and 132 for spot cotton. After the opening special action was dull, though the pit was crowded with expectant brokers. Cotton at 11 o'clock: January 11.75, February 9.41, March 9.36, July 9.21. At 1:30 p. m., the market was: January 11.95, March 9.37, May 9.26, October 8.20.

More Heads Called For.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pekin, Jan. 29.—The ministers met yesterday and discussed the punishments they wished to inflict upon the officers of towns where massacres have occurred. The result of the conference was that several names were added to the list of those whose deaths will be demanded. The ministers will not demand the death of Prince Tuan. China cannot be forced to behead him and Tung Fu Hsing.

A Runaway Without Horses.

Yesterday afternoon the Guilford 'bus, which is kept at Vanstory's livery stable, was left out in the street after the horses were unhitched. A sudden gust of wind set it rolling and it crossed the street at a good gait. When just in front of Mr. J. W. Mangum's store it struck a post, knocking the post down, and breaking one of Mr. Mangum's windows.

Several horses in the vicinity tried to run away, but none of them succeeded. This is the first instance on record of a vehicle running away of its own accord.

Services at Centenary.

Rev. H. K. Boyer, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, began a week's protracted services in his church Sunday, doing the preaching himself. His sermon last night was a most excellent one and the interest in the meeting is already marked. The hour is 7:30.

Picture of Dr. Caruthers.

In The Telegram office is a picture, taken from the photograph lately secured by Major Joseph M. Morehead, of the late Dr. Eli W. Caruthers. Those desiring to see it are invited to come in. A copy of the picture is in the hands of Mr. D. L. Clark, of High Point, who will make an oil painting for the Battle Ground Museum.

The Commoner and Conservative.

We are indebted to Judge W. H. Eller for a copy each of what he terms the "game chickens of Nebraska journalism"—W. J. Bryan's Commoner and J. Sterling Morton's Conservative. The Judge is personally acquainted with the editors of each of these papers.

After Adams' Scalp.

News and Observer.

It is said that Mr. Dan Hugh McLean is a candidate for the position of secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Railroad, and will very likely be appointed. This office is now held by ex-Judge Spencer B. Adams.

THE SECURITY LIFE & ANNUITY

INCORPORATORS MET LAST NIGHT AND ELECTED DIRECTORS.

The New Company is Arousing Interest Not Only in Greensboro but Throughout the State and is Receiving a Warm Welcome.

The Telegram's announcement last Saturday of the incorporation of the Security Life and Annuity Company of Greensboro, was the biggest and best piece of news that has come this way in some time. It was also the biggest surprise, as no one had thought of such a thing being on foot. The papers throughout the State are commenting favorably on the company and congratulating Greensboro on being on the eve of taking the lead in life insurance in the State, and perhaps in the South, as she has already lead the State on home fire insurance. An example of favorably comment we copy on this page from the Concord Tribune.

The incorporators of the Security Life and Annuity Company met last night for the first time since securing their charter. The meeting occurred at the McAdoo House. The organization of the company was made permanent by the election of the following directors:

J. Van Lindley, P. H. Hanes, J. W. Scott, F. H. Fries, Lee H. Battle, E. Colwell, Jr., P. D. Gold, Jr., and M. L. Shields, each of whom will be actively engaged in the management of the company. Mr. Fries, whose name did not appear in our article last Saturday, is well known as one of the leading financiers of the State. He is president of the Wachovia Loan and Trust Company of Winston, president of the Mayo and Avalon Mills of Mayodan, besides being a stockholder in other large enterprises.

The meeting last night was a very enthusiastic one and bespeaks the determination of these gentlemen to make the company the leading life insurance company of the South. The aggregate assets of those interested in the company are estimated at over a million and a half dollars. With such management as these gentlemen will give, the success of the company is assured, and the State may well be proud of it.

Uncle Sam Wants 'Em.

Corporal P. J. Watkins, of the Greensboro recruiting station, leaves tomorrow to open a temporary recruiting office in Winston. Volunteers are now wanted for all branches of the service.

May be a Cigarette Factory.

It is rumored today that the American Tobacco Company will in the near future start an all-tobacco cigarette factory in Greensboro. We cannot vouch for the truthfulness of the report.

Ministers Meeting.

All the white ministers of Greensboro and vicinity are requested to meet at West Market church tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock for the purpose of organizing an interdenominational ministers' association.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The South Greensboro Y.W.C.T.U. will meet at Mrs. Glascock's on Asheboro street Wednesday at 4 p. m. Let the members and other interested young women attend, if possible.

Odd Fellows: All members are earnestly requested to be present at the regular meeting tonight, promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Work in the Third Degree. By order of the Noble Grand.

Mrs. C. G. Wright has for some time been missing various articles around her home, and today Chief Scott visited the home of a young negro girl who works for Mrs. Wright and found a large number of the missing articles. Although a young darkey she stole with an expertness worthy of an older head.

News and Observer: Miss Annie Glenn who has been visiting her father, Senator Glenn, here, has returned to Greensboro where she will resume her studies in Greensboro Female College.

Miss Sarah Witherspoon, who has been quite sick with grip, has improved. Master Thornwell Witherspoon, who has been sick also, is out today.

WHIPPED THE HAZERS.

Capt. Frank Schoeffel, of the Famous Ninth, Said to be the Man.

Baltimore Sun.

New York, Jan. 27.—It is learned on good authority that Capt. Frank Schoeffel, of the Ninth United States Infantry, is the man spoken of with awe by the West Point cadets at the recent Congressional inquiry as the only man who ever went through the Military Academy without being hazed, because he whipped every man pitted against him.

In West Point traditions Schoeffel will long be remembered as the "plebe" who whipped "everything in sight," who fought five men "to a finish" in one day and "his most accomplished antagonist after 28 rounds. In the army he has gone right ahead whipping Spaniards, Filipinos and Chinese Boxers. Schoeffel is 6 feet 1½ inches in height, is aggressively redheaded and comes of fighting stock, being the son of Col. Francis A. Schoeffel, of Rochester, N. Y. When Frank decided to try for a West Point cadetship, in 1887, he already had his growth. He had heard something of West Point's physical standards, so he went into systematic training.

Schoeffel ran many miles daily along the canal towpath, swung Indian clubs and dumb bells, punched the bag, skipped the rope and took boxing lessons from the best instructor in Rochester. A year later, when he went to West Point, he was promptly "called out." History mercifully conceals the names of 30 men whom Schoeffel met successively before he established his right to immunity from persecution. He left marks on most of them, and during his first year supplied material for at least one ward in the hospital with great regularity. A few years later Schoeffel's brother Bernard came along as a "plebe" and the cadets observed that the stripling was built on the same lines as Frank. He was accepted on his apparent merits and did not have to fight his way to fame

As a first lieutenant of the Ninth Infantry Frank Schoeffel fought at San Juan and gained promotion to a captaincy. Bernard became a lieutenant in his brother's company. They went to the Philippines and did splendid work under Lawton and later went with the relief army to Pekin.

Denmark's Aid to Farmers.

Special to The Telegram.

Copenhagen, Jan. 29.—The government of Denmark is making a steady effort to improve the condition of its rural population by the encouragement of education among them. It is stated that this has proved a great success, so great indeed that the contrast between the British and Danish rural districts is somewhat humiliating to Englishmen. It is declared here that the British agricultural interests and population are a century or more behind Denmark. The kingdom of Denmark has within a few years reclaimed some 2,000 square miles of previously waste land, which had been regarded as almost valueless. About five-sixths of her territory is possessed by small freeholders and peasants. The peasantry have established some 400 banks, chiefly under their own management. They have set up cattle-breeding societies, co-operative steam dairies, bakeries, factories and mills. Today Denmark is the second country in the world in regard to wealth per head of its population.

N. Y. State Medical Society.

Special to The Telegram.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29.—The New York State Medical Society began a three days' annual session in this city today, under the presidency of Dr. A. M. Phelps. A number of valuable papers were read, to be followed by others of equal interest and value to the profession and the public. The President inaugural address was delivered this morning. The sessions today were divided into medical and surgical sections in order to provide for the presentation of papers. Tomorrow morning's session will be taken up with a demonstration clinic at the New Albany Hospital under the direction of Drs. Vauder Veer, Macdonald and Ward, and with a discussion upon a paper to be presented by Dr Charles A. L. Reed, of Cincinnati, president of the American Medical Association, upon "Pelvic Infection in Women."

IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 28.—The boast of the Tammany Hall assessors that they added the enormous sum of two billions of dollars to the personal assessment roll of the city is well founded. It has been done. If it sticks there the tax rate will be lowered notwithstanding the enormous increase in the city budget. But it won't stick. This is one of the most transparent humbugs that Tammany Hall has ever perpetrated upon a long-suffering public. The way the additions were is this: An underling from Tammany Hall was sent into every office building in the city, and each one took down in his note book every name that appeared on the office doors. These names were copied into the assessment rolls, and opposite each name the sum of at least $10,000 was placed. In many cases the amount was made larger. It matters not that the persons named had no property: that is for them to prove. One tenant of a large office-building who was put put down for $10,000, said he had a desk, a pocket-knife and a pair of scissors, and ever since he received a notice of assessment has been trying to figure how the $10,000 was divided—whether the desk was counted as $5,000, the knife at $3,000, and the scissors at $2,000, or vice versa. It is certain that thousands of names have been added to the rolls of men who possess nothing whatever in the shape of property, but some of whom have been practically bankrupt for many years. Indeed, New York's assessment rolls are a huge joke, but the victims swear at it as a big nuisance. They have to swear off the assessment or pay the tax.

The Young Woman Finally Left.

The papers have been filled with the eloping of Miss Maive Louise Ackerman, a wealthy young woman with prominent relatives, and George Emmons Wentworth, a lawyer, of whom his deserted wife is still so fond that she would still take him back, although she knows he has been unfaithful to her in more instances than the one that has succeeded in getting in the newspapers. One of the curious features of the case is, that the young woman is now outside of New York city for the first time in her life. Notwithstanding she is possessed of a fortune in her own right and could have gone wherever she chose to go sightseeing, she had never before been farther from the city hall than a trolley ride to Mount Vernon, a few miles above the Harlem River. Her friends had tried to persuade her to just go and take a look at Hoboken across the North River, or take a short ride to Newark, or up the Hudson River to West Point. But, no! She wouldn't step outside of the Metropolis. And now she has stepped outside, not only of New York city but out of decency as well.

Justice in New York and New Jersey.

There has been general remark as to the astounding difference that is to be found in the administration of justice in New York city and in the state of New Jersey, as shown in the Jennie Bosschieter case. Seldom has an out-of-town tragedy attracted so much attention in this city as did this case. Throngs stood in front of the bulletin boards in nearly as large numbers as was seen during the Spanish-American war. And yet the case has been concluded in less than a week, and that, too, while justice has received additional honor by the speedy and yet dignified progress of the trial. In New York city, with a trial of such prominence and with details so horrifying, the lawyers would still have been wrangling over the selection of the third juror, and would scarcely have got to the opening of the case. The New York trial would also surely have had an army of experts on both sides.

The delay in capital cases in New York is a crying evil, against which all classes of people inveigh constantly. It looks as though the trial of Roland B. Molineux was but just beginning. The printing of the record alone will cost $1,000 and take a month's time. With 6,000 pages of court proceedings to handle the lawyer can now, justly claim that the case must have time given it. The argument can hardly be held in less than three months. If a new trial is secured, it will be as long as the old one, in all probability, and New York city may take as many years to dispose of one alleged murderer as New Jersey did of days in trying four men charged with the same crime.

Shaking Up in the Newspaper Offices.

Turning the office force out of doors still continues to be the practice in Printing House Square. The practice of making frequent changes with great suddenness originated with the Herald. It has been carried to such an extent in that office that it was best shown in the story that is told of the period when "Bob" Morris was city editor. At that period a gentleman descending the stairs from the city editor's room, met one of the editorial force coming up. "Who's the city editor?" he asked. "I can't tell you," was the reply. "I've just been out to lunch. When I left the office "Bob" Morris was city editor, but who is city editor now, I don't know." The latest change told of in newspaper circles is, that Foster Coates has signed a contract for $25,000 per annum to be managing editor of the New York Journal. Another change is disclosed by the disappearance of "Matthew Marshall's" financial article from the New York Sun, and the appearance of the same article over the signature of "Philip King." "Matthew Marshall" was one of the Sun's chief ribs. He is a millionaire broker named Hitchcock. He has been connected with the Sun for a generation and was high in its councils. He is reported to have sold his stock in the Sun.

NEGATIVE POLICIES WONT DO.

The Honorable W. J. Stone, at present a shining Democratic light, ought to be and doubtless is recognized as a Democratic authority. In a speech the other day Mr. Stone said:

"I would again, as I have for years past, urge upon the Democratic party to be more affirmative and aggressive in matters of public policy. My criticism of our party leadership is that it has been too negative,too conservative, and not sufficiently assertive or progressive. We have become too much a negative, and too little a positive force in public affairs. We should not only object to what others propose, although we should certainly object to whatever is wrong, but the Democratic party, if worthy to rule, must propose and promote great policies of its own. Undoubtedly the money question, the trust question and the tariff question are all questions of prime importance. but there are other questions also of great public moment upon which the party should take not only a positive but a suggestive position. For instance, with a view to promoting our commercial interests, at home and abroad, we ought to make the rehabilitation of our merchant marine the construction of an isthmian canal, and the construction of a shipway from the gulf to the lakes, and may be to the Atlantic, a leading feature of our plan for the national development. It is well enough to oppose the so-called Hanna subsidy, but nevertheless the fact remains that our merchant vessels, which under the old Democratic regime swarmed in every sea, have now almost entirely disappeared. We should go forth and acquire dominion of the seas again. It will not do to merely oppose a particular policy you may consider bad, but you must propose and urge a better policy of your own. Here is open a great and splendid field for a constructive and progressive party policy."

Governor Stone is undoubtedly right. As we have often said before, this has been the great fault of the Democratic party since the War. It has so gotten into the habit of opposing Republican policies that it has ceased to distinguish between good and bad policies of its opponent, and merely opposes all that it suggests, regardless of the value of each. This has been so marked that we have often wondered what would have happened if the Republican convention of 1896 had assembled in advance of the Democratic one and had written a free silver platform instead of a gold standard one.

We can heartily agree with the opinion of "Voter," that there ought to be some change in the matter of the election and service of our aldermen.

What is fame, anyhow? Here is the Norfolk Landmark referring to this esteemed sheet as the Greensboro Telegraph.

An esteemed contemporary enquires how is it that Mrs. Nation manages to keep out of jail.

Ahead of One Trust.

A special from Lincoln, Neb., says: Mr. Bryan has got the better of one trust. The news agencies had placed orders with him for 10,000 copies of his first issue, expecting to handle the Nebraska trade. Mr. Bryan supplied local newsdealers at Lincoln, Omaha and other State points a day ahead. The agency trust has entered a protest. The demand for the Commoner continues and new subscriptions, at the rate of 1,000 a day, are being booked. All of the 50,000 printed of the first edition have been exhausted and 15,000 more were printed today.

THE CHILD AND THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Prof. P. P. Claxton before the Mothers' Meeting.

The great work of the Sunday School is to teach the Bible, and this should be done thoroughly and systematically. Two principles must be observed The subject rather must be taken up in the order of interest to the children, and each part must be presented as a connected whole. The whole story, description, oration, drama, song or sermon must be given, the beginning, middle and end. The moral or morals will come more easily and naturally when the events and actions are seen in their proper relations. The two fatal defects of the International Lessons must be avoided: We must neither make hash of the subject by selecting for study disconnected passages, nor must we attempt to make all students, of whatever age or degree of advancement, study the same lesson at the same time, and finish it at the same time. Applied anywhere else, the absurdity of this practice would be seen at once. With all our Sunday Schools and Sunday School helps (or hindrances) young people do not know the Bible as well or read it as much as the young people of a generation two ago, and most of them regard it as a very dull and uninteresting book, to be read only on compulsion.

The two parts of the Bible most interesting to children are the stories of the Old Testiment and the stories of Jesus. The story is the child's natural mental and spiritual food. Many teachers believe the stories of the Old Testament should come first, and there is much good reason for this belief But the stories of the birth, childhood, baptism, trials, death, resurrection and ascension of Jesus, and of many of the most important events of his life are intensely interesting to young children. They are simple and easy to understand and remember, and most children have already much of Jesus at home and in church, at Christmas and Easter. If these are selected for the first Sunday School work, the children's minds will be found ready for them, and the Sunday School teaching will take hold at once on the home teaching.

One of these stories should be taught just as the mother or a good teacher teaches any other story. It should first be told to the children in the simplest language and with all necessary details. It should be told in sections and repeated by the children, each child having an opportunity to tell each section and, finally, the entire story. The little book you use (A Year With Jesus) gives these stories in simple but elegant language. The teacher must learn to tell the stories well. After a story has been begun at school the mother shodld read the child the Bible accounts every day or two for the two or three weeks that it is studied, The Bible language is simple and easy; children who can read a Second Seder may easily read it for themselves. Don't be in a hurry to get away from a story; children like repetition. The stories of Jesus, given in forty-eight lessons in your little books, may well take the three years from five to eight. Leave every story where all the children in the class can tell it, picture it, and begin to understand it; but frequently call it up afterwards in connection with other stories. Before leaving this work each child should be able to tell any or all the stories of Jesus in good language.

Don't be too anxious to teach the morals of the stories, the moral of a good story is the story itself. Children should be encouraged to ask questions, and the teacher's questions should be only suggestive. A few verses of a poem or a song (Luther's Song of the Nativity) should be taught with each story.

The most valuable help in teaching children is a few good pictures. Many children learn to read a book through long before they know a letter in it, simply by looking at the pictures and hearing the stories a time or two. Good pictures speak to all in a language easily understood. Hundreds of excellent pictures for use in Sunday school can be had for a cent apiece or less from the Perry Picture Company, the Helman-Taylor Company or the Wilde Company. They are especially useful in reviewing the stories and in testing the children's knowledge of them. Give the picture into the hands of a child and let it explain it, telling who or what each figure is, what it is doing or saying, and why.

No other teaching can be so valuable to the child all its life, for culture or character, as the stories of the Bible taught in this way; and every mother who has any interest in the education and welfare of her children, should unite earnestly and helpfully with the Sunday school teacher in teaching these lessons.

PROVES A FAILURE.

Ideal Home for Tramps Established in New Jersey Is Closed Down.

The "Weary Willies" Fail to Patronize the Institution—Baths and Barber Shop Connected Therewith May Explain Why.

Many hopes are blasted by the failure of Terradelphia, the Utopia of tramps in Trenton, N. J. The greatest disappointment of all is that of Thomas M. Terradel, the founder, who has devoted many years to his pet scheme to establish a self-supporting home for the "Weary Willies" of the nation, and B. M. Brown, who last April left Princeton theological seminary and abandoned the idea of becoming a minister in order to take charge of the institution, and last are the "hobos" left to the mercy of a cold world at the beginning of winter.

Mr. Brown has resigned and the institution is now in charge of Mr. Terradel. Interest is past due on mortgages amounting to $60,000.

A dozen years ago "Tom" Terradel, an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, gave up his position and invested all his savings in this tramps' retreat. With the aid of others he erected a six-story building and the scheme was launched, but the institution never prospered. The heirs of Isaiah Williamson, a Philadelphia millionaire, gave a large sum of money to put the institution on its feet.

Mr. Brown was placed in charge and all comforts, including baths, barber shop, correspondence-rooms, telephone, employment bureaus and reading-room, were offered.

Whether or not it was the baths and barber shop that scared away patrons is not known, but the scheme languished as much as ever.

BRITISHERS GOOD GUNNERS.

New World's Record Established by the Men Serving the Guns on the Battleship Terrible.

A new world's record has been established by the gunners of her majesty's ship Terrible, the big battleship of the Asiatic squadron. The percentages of actual hits made in target practice with the six-inch guns on the Terrible was 76.8. The Terrible had two 9.2 and 12 6-inch guns, the shooting from the former being also a brilliant record, 60 per cent. of hits having been made. Four captains of guns made "possibles," two with ten and two with nine rounds.

The "misses" would have been "hits" had a ship been substituted for the target.

Co-eds in Switzerland.

Switzerland's universities are still the most popular academies in Europe for women students from all parts of the world. Of 850 students at the University of Zurich 218 are women. One hundred and twenty of these are studying medicine, 58 philosophy, 21 natural science and 11 jurisprudence. Only 18 are of Swiss nationality. Ninety-seven are Russians, 29 Americans and as many Germans.

"Yes, that cheeky young Wintergreen made a friend of the haughty Mrs. De Young the very first time he met her!" "How did he do it?" "He asked her if her hair wasn't prematurely gray."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bingley—"Well, old man, I'm to be married to-morrow." Naggs—"I hope you have thought this over carefully, Bingley; do you love her?" Bingley—"Oh, don't be sentimental! The girl has money—isn't that enough?"—Ohio State Journal.

"I think I'll let you measure me for a sack suit out of this cloth," said Crolly, indicating his preference. "Very well," said his tailor, "I can make you that suit for $30 or $100." "What's the idea in the two prices?" "Cash or credit."—Philadelphia Press.

Landlady—"Beg pardon, sir, but did I understand as you were a doctor of music?" Musician—"I am, ma'am; why?" Landlady—"Well, sir, my Billy 'ave just been and broke 'is concertina, and I thought as 'ow I shud be glad to put a hodd job in yer way."—Fun.

Giglamps—"Hashly is the luckiest man I know." Sharpley—"Why, I thought him particularly unfortunate." Giglamps—"Why, he draws a pension for being wounded in war, and now he is to get damages for having been hit by a trolley car."—Town Topics.

GOT RID OF THE TARANTULA.

The Express Messenger, as Advised Took the Best Means of Disposing of It.

A young man wearing a seersucker coat and with big beads of perspiration on his face came into the smoking car of an Erie railway train as it was getting along toward the meadows of Orange county the other day. He was the express messenger, says the New York Sun.

"I've bagged something," he exclaimed. "Can anyone tell me what kind of a pup it is?"

A big man, with long whiskers and hair and a cowboy's hat, who was smoking strong plug tobacco in a clay pipe, said:

"Lemme see it."

The young man held the dinner bucket at arm's length and raised the lid. The big man looked into the bucket.

"A t'rantuly, by cedar!" he said, and took the bucket from the young man.

"A t'rantuly, as sure as guns!" he continued. "A citizen of Bermudy, this chap is. And a beauty, too!"

The big man got out of his seat and passed the dinner pail around among the passengers. It was nearly half full of something that seemed to be all hair and claws and eyes. No one seemed pleased with the sight except the big man. It was a tarantula sure enough.

A unanimous request was made by the rest of the passengers that the hideous spider be pitched out of the window. But the big man gazed at the deadly thing with undisturbed interest.

"Where did you run ag'in him?" he asked the express messenger.

"Came out of a bunch o' bananas in my car," replied the young man. "I cornered him and he jumped into my dinner bucket and I shut him in. What is he good for?"

"He's a first-class benefactor of the coroner when he's to home," said the big man. "If there's any feller citizen of your'n that you'd like to have a funeral at his house, just take this stowaway from Bermuda home with you and turn him in your fellow-citizen's garden. If your fellow-citizen fools around much in his garden you'll see crape on his door in less than two days. The t'rantuly is pizen for keeps to them as hain't vaccinated for t'rantulies. If I was you, young man, I'd take this chap and let your locomotive run over him. A good, strong locomotive is about the only thing that kin tackle one o' these chaps and make a success of it."

The bag man handed the dinner bucket back to its owner, who took it and carried it away. When the train left the next station he came in and said that the train had met the tranantula, and that 20 feet of grease spot and a pint or so of legs and hair had indicated that the locomotive had won.

Must Pay for Medals.

It seems somewhat ridiculous that a man who has gained a prize shall have to pay for it. Such is the case with respect to the prizes gained by many of the exhibitors at the exhibition. Gold and silver medals have been awarded by the hundred, but instead of such medals being actually of gold and silver, they will be of bronze, unless the successful exhibitors choose to pay for them. The prize winners have just been informed that those who have gained a silver medal can have one of real silver—one weighing 130 grammes—by paying 22 francs, while the happy recipient of a gold medal can receive the genuine article—weighing approximately 200 grammes—for the trifling sum of 710 francs. They sometimes do strange things in France.—Paris Messenger.

Sequel to a Dream.

A Paris merchant dreamed of his daughter who died several years ago, and next morning, with his dream still mournfully haunting his memory, something brought to his mind that it was one of the days on which the municipal lottery was open. To the lottery, thereupon, he went, being a man of sporting instinct, and his dream suggested the venture. His daughter having died at the age of 24 years, 13 days, 4 hours, he selected these three numbers to bet upon, and two of the three proved highly lucky. One on which he had laid 8s. 4d. brought him 250 times his stake, or £100, and the other 4,250 times his stake of £1 12s. 6d., or £6,809.—London Tit-Bits.

Siberian Banks Get More Latitude.

The Russian minister of finance has accorded the Russo-Chinese bank and all its branches in East Siberia the specially valuable privilege of the free purchase of gold dust and nuggets, without demanding from the seller any proof of origin, says a St. Petersburg correspondent. Up to the present this purchase of gold has been strictly prohibited by the Russian government, and the concession is intended to paralyze the secret sale of this gold to other countries. The coming heavy purchases by the bank will strengthen the gold reserves in the Russian imperial bank, which have been greatly depleted by the expenditure over China.—N. Y. Sun.

ITALIAN PRIEST ROBBED.

Clever Swindlers Play a Neat Trick and Are Enriched $50,000 Thereby.

According to a story just received from Italy, a couple of clever rascals, said to be Americans, played a confidence game lately on an Italian priest by which they profited to the extent of $50,000. They have not been caught. Rev. Father M. Grosso, a member of the Society of Jesus, who is superior of the Jesuit institute at Turin, was the victim. Two handsomely dressed men, apparently Americans or Englishmen, called upon him about a fortnight ago and told him that they were the trustees of a rich orphaned boy, whose father had been killed in the war in the Transvaal. They told the priest that they wished to place the boy under his care and have him educated in the institute. At the same time, they said that they were custodians of £40,000, which belonged to their ward, and this money they desired to leave in the priest's charge.

Father Grosse consented to take the boy under his care and also agreed to accept custody of the funds, as suggested. The two strangers displayed several bundles of bank notes, apparently genuine, which they placed in compartments in the safe which Father Grosso accommodatingly opened for them. The pair then left the house, stating that they were going to Milan, where they had left their young charge, and would return with him.

Several days passed, but neither of the men returned. Father Grosso then, having become suspicious, went to his safe. He found that notes aggregating £10,000, all the funds of the institute, were gone, and that the bundles of so-called bank notes left by the two strangers contained nothing but waste paper.

The men, under the eyes of the priest, had extracted the institution's money in the safe while placing their own counterfeits in the compartments.

The police of the principal cities of Europe and this country have been notified.

SCHOOL FOR GOSPEL SINGERS

Ira D. Sankey En Route to New York to Establish a New Institution.

Ire D. Sankey, famed co-laborer of Dwight L. Moody, hopes to parallel in New York the work which the late evangelist initiated at Northfield. During their long association both believed in the effectiveness of combined exhortation and Gospel song. Northfield now has an institute which prepares men for evangelistic work. Mr. Sankey now proposes to establish in New York a school for Gospel singers, and cooperation between the two institutions is likely.

Before sailing for the United States from London the other day, after the completion of a three weeks' lecturing tour in England and Ireland, Mr. Sankey said he intended to establish his school early next year. In explaining his plans he continued:

"Many of our friends have suggested the advisability of perpetuating the musical system which has always proved such a popular side to Mr. Moody's evangelical work. I have undertaken the task by mapping out a regular course of instruction built upon the lines of my long and interesting experience."

FOREIGNERS INTERESTED.

American Art Exhibition at Paris Exposition Excites Favorable Comment by Foreign Critics.

John B. Cauldwell, United States director of fine arts at the Paris exposition, has arrived at New York. The American exhibit was left in charge of Henry B. Snell, the assistant director, who will remain with it until it is shipped home on the United States cruiser Prairie about the end of the month. Concerning American art abroad Mr. Cauldwell said: "Our fine arts exhibit at the Paris exhibition attracted general attention and was commented upon most favorably not only by the French, but by the German, Austrian and Italian critics, some of whom expressed astonishment at the progress made by the painters and sculptors of the United States during the last decade. A marked interest was shown particularly in the canvases of our artists residing at home as distinguished from our artists residing abroad, and it was generally conceded that their work showed indisputable evidence of the development of a strong, wholesome and untrammeled national art."

Making of a Revolutionist

The editors of Current Literature say of "Resurrection," Count Leo Tolstoi's late book, published by Dodd, Mead & Co.: "It would be impossible to give in a reading any adequate impression of 'Resurrection,' for it is as full of incident and experience as life. Nekhludoff, the principal character, is a Russian noble, whose naturally upright, straightforward and spiritual temperament has been stifled by the empty phrases with which his class excuse their self-indulgence. Suddenly a tragic incident reveals to him the chasm between the aspirations of his youth and the moral lethargy of his manhood. With that incident 'the free spiritual being which alone is true, alone eternal, was awakened in him, and from that moment there began for him a new life.' The story tells of the matu ng of this life, and of the light in wh existing social institutions appear to Nekhludoff from his new point of view. Resurrection is a great literary masterpiece, and the greatest of problem novels in that it deals with the fundamental problem—man's relation to man. As an introduction to the following reading, it may be stated that Nekhludoff has followed a gang of political prisoners and convicts into Siberia, because among them is a woman called Katusha whom he had once wronged and to whom he would atone. Kryltzoff, who tells the story, is a political prisoner."

NEYHLUDOFF grew especially fond of Kryltzoff, a consumptive young man condemned to hard labor, who was going with the same gang as Katusha. Nekhludoff had made his acquaintance already in Ekaterinburg, and talked with him several times on the road after that. Once, in summer, Nekhludoff spent nearly the whole of a day with him at a halting station, and Kryltzoff, having once started talking, told him his story and how he had become a revolutionist. Up to the time of his imprisonment his story was soon told. He lost his father, a rich landed proprietor in the south of Russia, when still a child. He was the only son, and his mother brought him up. He learned easily in the university, as well as the gymnasium, and was first in the mathematical faculty in his year. He was offered a choice of remaining in the university or going abroad. He hesitated. He loved a girl and was thinking of marriage, and taking part in the rural administration. He did not like giving up either offer, and could not make up his mind. At this time his fellow-students at the university asked him for money for a common cause. He did not know that this common cause was revolutionary, which he was not interested in at that time, but gave the money from a sense of comradeship and vanity, so that it should not be said that he was afraid. Those who received the money were caught, a note was found which proved that the money had been given by Krytlzoff; he was arrested, and first kept at the police station, then imprisoned.

"The prison where I was put," Kryltzoff went on to relate (he was sitting on the high shelf bedstead, his elbows on his knees, with sunken chest, the beautiful, intelligent eyes with which he looked at Nekhludoff glistening feverishly)—"they were not specially strict in that prison. We managed to converse, not only by tapping the wall, but could walk about the corridors, share our provisions and our tobacco, and in the evenings we even sang in chorus. I had a fine voice—yes, if it had not been for mother it would have been all right, even pleasant and interesting. Here I made the acquaintance of the famous Petroff—he afterward killed himself with a piece of glass at the fortress—and also of others. But I was not yet a revolutionary. I also became acquainted with my neighbors in the cells next to mine. They were both caught with Polish proclamations and arrested in the same cause, and were tried for an attempt to escape from the convoy when they were being taken to the railway station. One was a Pole, Lozinsky; the other a Jew, Rozovsky. Yes. Well, this Rozovsky was quite a boy. He said he was 17, but he looked 15—thin, small, active, with black, sparkling eyes, and, like most Jews, very musical. His voice was still breaking, and yet he sang beautifully. Yes. I saw them both taken to be tried. They were taken in the morning. They returned in the evening, and said they were condemned to death. No one had expected it. Their case was so unimportant; they only tried to get away from the convoy and had not even wounded anyone. And then it was so unnatural to execute such a child as Rozovsky. And we in prison all came to the conclusion that it was only done to frighten them, and would not be confirmed. At first we were excited, and then we comforted ourselves, and life went on as before. Yes. Well, one evening, a watchman comes to my door and mysteriously announces to me that carpenters had arrived, and were putting up the gallows. At first I did not understand. What's that? What gallows? But the watchman was so excited that I saw at once it was for our two. I wished to tap and communicate with my comrades, but was afraid those two would hear. The comrades were also silent. Evidently everybody knew. In the corridors and in the cells everything was as still as death all that evening. They did not tap the wall nor sing. At ten the watchman came again and announced that a hangman had arrived from Moscow. He said it and went away. I began calling him back. Suddenly I hear Rozovsky shouting to me across the corridor: 'What's the matter? Why do you call him?' I answered something about asking him to get me some tobacco, but he seemed to guess, and asked me: 'Why did we not sing tonight, why did we not tap the walls?' I do not remember what I said, but I went away so as not to speak to him. Yes. It was a terrible night. I listened to every sound all night. Suddenly, toward morning, I hear doors opening and somebody walking—many persons. I went up to my window. There was a lamp burning in the corridor. The first to pass was the inspector. He was stout, and seemed a resolute, self-satisfied man, but he looked ghastly pale, downcast, and seemed frightened; then his assistant, frowning but resolute; behind them the watchman. They passed my door and stopped at the next, and I hear the assistant calling out in a strange voice: 'Lozinsky, get up and put on clean linen.' Yes. Then I hear the creaking of the door; they entered into his cell. Then I hear Lozinsky's steps going to the opposite side of the corridor. I could only see the inspector. He stood quite pale, and buttoned and unbuttoned his coat, shrugging his shoulders. Yes. Then, as if frightened of something, he moved out of the way. It was Lozinsky, who passed him and came up to my door. A handsome young fellow he was you know, of that nice Polish type; broad-shouldered, his head covered with fine, curly hair as with a cap, and with beautiful blue eyes. So blooming, so fresh, so healthy. He stopped in front of my window, so that I could see the whole of his face. A dreadful, gaunt, livid face. 'Kryltzoff, have you any cigarettes?' I wished to pass him some, but the assistant hurriedly pulled out his cigarette case and passed it to him. He took out one, the assistant struck a match, and he lit the cigarette and began to smoke, and seemed to be thinking. Then, as if he had remembered something, he began to speak. 'It is cruel and unjust. I have committed no crime. I—' I saw something quiver in his white young throat, from which I could not take my eyes, and he stopped. Yes. At that moment I hear Rozovsky shouting in his fine, Jewish voice. Lozinsky threw away the cigarette and stepped from the door. And Rozovsky appeared at the window. His childish face, with the limpid black eyes, were red and moist. He also had clean linen on, the trousers were too wide, and he kept pulling them up and trembled all over. He approached his pitiful face to my window. 'Kryltzoff, it's true that the doctor has prescribed cough mixture for me, is it not? I am not well. I'll take some more of the mixture.' No one answered and he looked inquiringly, now at me, now at the inspector. What he meant to say I never made out. Yes. Suddenly the assistant again put on a stern expression, and called out in a kind of squeaking tone: 'Now, then, no nonsense. Let us go.' Rozovsky seemed incapable of understanding what awaited him, and hurried, almost ran, in front of him all along the corridor. But then he drew back, and I could hear his shrill voice and his cries, then the trampling of feet, and general hubbub. He was shrieking and sobbing. The sounds came fainter and fainter, and at last the door rattled and all was quiet. Yes. And so they hanged them. Throttled them both with a rope. A watchman, another one, saw it done, and told me that Lozinsky did not resist, but Rozovsky struggled for a long time, so that they had to pull him up on to the scaffold and to force his head into the noose. Yes. This watchman was a stupid fellow. He said: 'They told me, sir, that it would be frightful, but it was not at all frightful. After they were hanged they only shrugged their shoulders twice, like this.' He showed how the shoulders convulsively rose and fell. 'Then the hangman pulled a bit so as to tighten the noose, and it was all up, and they never budged.'" And Kryltzoff repeated the watchman's words: 'Not at all frightful,' and tried to smile, but burst into tears instead."

For a long time after that he kept silent, breathing heavily, and repressing the choking sobs.

"From that time I became a revolutionist. Yes," he said, when he was quieter and finished his story in a few words. He belonged to the Narodovoltzy party, and was even at the head of the disorganizing group, whose object was to terrorize the government so that it should give up its power of its own accord. With this object he traveled to Petersburg, to Kiev, to Odessa and abroad, and was everywhere successful. A man in whom he had full confidence betrayed him. He was arrested, tried, kept in prison for two years, and condemned to death, but the sentence was mitigated to one of hard labor for life.

He went into consumption while in prison, and in the condition he was now placed he had scarcely more than a few months longer to live. This he knew, but did not repent of his action, but said that if he had another life he would use it in the same way to destroy the conditions in which such things as he had seen were possible.

PUZZLED.

Sunday School Times.

Editor's Note.—This poem of Mrs. Slosson's has had rather a remarkable history. She wrote the verse one Sunday afternoon, some years ago, and enclosed them just as they were, in pencil, to one of her most intimate friends, the late Dr. Houghton, of the famous Little Church Around the Corner, in New York City. On the following day Dr. Houghton wrote to Mrs. Slosson, asking permission to print the verse without her name as a leaflet for circulation. They were thus printed with Mrs. Slosson's consent, and were widely circulated.

A few weeks after they were printed, a series of special daily services was held during Advent in the Episcopal churches of New York City. At one of these services in an up-town church a copy of the verses was placed by some unknown person in every pew. The poem then crept into religioue newspapers and magazines, at first anonymously, then with various signatures. In one year alone no less than eight different publications were sent to the author from various friends, each attributing it to a different author.

In the Notes and Queries column of the Boston Transcript, in the Journal of Commerce of New York, The Ladies' Home Journal, The Boston Globe, and several other papers, its authorship was asked for. The answer was given incorrectly in most cases. Once the reply to such a query attributed the authorship to a well-known Bishop of the Episcopal Church, who immediately in a private note disclaimed having written the poem, but added that he wished he had.

It is a pleasure to print these verses in connection with their rightful author's name in these columns, and thus to set right, it is hoped finally, any question as to their authorship.

You ask me whether I'm High Church,
You ask me whether I'm Low;
I wish you'd tell the difference,
For I'm sure that I don't know.
I'm just a plain old body,
And my brain works pretty slow;
So I don't know whether I'm High Church,
And I don't know whether I'm Low.

I'm trying to be a Christian
In the plain, old-fashioned way
Laid down in my mother's Bible,
And I read it every day;
Our blessed Lord's life in the Gospels,
Or a comforting Psalm of old,
Or bit from the Revelation
Of the city whose streets are gold.

Then I pray; why, I'm generally praying,
Tho' I don't always kneel or speak out,
But I ask the dear Lord, and keep asking
Till I fear he is all tired out;
A piece of the Litany sometimes,
The Collect, perhaps, for the day,
Or a scrap of a prayer that my mother
So long ago learned me to say.

But now my poor memory's failing,
And often and often I find
That never a prayer from the prayer-book
Will seem to come into my mind,
But I know what I want and I ask it,
And I make up the words as I go;
Do you think now that shows I ain't High Church?
Do you think that it means I am Low?

My blessed old husband has left me;
'Tis years since God took him away;
I know he is safe, well, and happy,
And yet when I kneel down to pray,
Perhaps it is wrong, but I never
Leave the old man's name out of my prayer,
But I ask the dear Lord to do for him
What I would do if I was there.

Of course he can do it much better;
But he knows, and he surely won't mind
The worry about her old husband
Of the old woman left here behind.
So I pray, and I pray, for the old man,
And I'm sure that I shall till I die;
So maybe that proves I ain't Low Church,
And maybe it shows I am High.

My old father was never a Churchman,
But a Scotch Presbyterian saint;
Still, his white head is shining in Heaven,
I don't care who says it ain't.
To one of our blessed Lord's mansions
That old man was certain to go,
And now do you think I am High Church?
Are sure that I ain't pretty Low?

I tell you it's all just a muddle,
Too much for a body like me;
I'll wait till I join my old husband,
And then we shall see what we'll see.
Don't ask me again, if you please, sir,
For really it worries me so,
And I don't know whether I'm High Church,
And I don't know whether I'm Low.
—Annie Trumbull Slosson.

The Charity Ball.

Special to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 29.—The great Charity Ball, which always brings out the elite of the city, will be especially elegant this year, and will be given tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria. This ball is always noted for the magnificence of the toilettes of the ladies. The Nursery and Childs' Hospital is the charity benefited. Some of the lines of work carried on are a hospital for destitute babies and children, lying-in ward for destitute mothers, instruction of mothers in branches of domestic service, a home for destitute children, training for young physicans and past graduate courses for nurses in obstetrics and children's diseases, training young women for nursery maids, and collateral lines of work.

A Curious Commendation.

The Baptist pastor in a certain Southern town had agreed to say a few words to the colored brethren. The colored divine presented him to the congregation with quite a lengthy speech; which wound up something like this: "Brethern, our white brother will now speak to you on the subject, 'Every-day Religion,' and I assure you be appreciates your obstacles. His face is white, but it ain't that that counts. He's got as black a heart as any of you."

A FRIGHTFUL BLUNDER.

Will often cause a horrible burn, scald, cut or bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures old sores, fever sores, ulcers, boils, felons, corns, all skin eruptions. Best pile cure on earth. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by C. E. Holton.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. Kings New Discovery, saying that it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

When threatened by pneumonia, or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

A MONSTER DEVIL FISH

Destroying its victim, is a type of constipation. The power of this murderous malady is felt on organs and nerves and muscles and brain. There is no health till it's overcome. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a safe and certain cure. Best in the world for stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Only 25 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store.

fair tonight in east, probably occasional rains in west portion; warmer Sunday, increasing cloudiness and probably rain; northeast winds becoming south, south to brisk on the coast.

Pepsin preparations often fail to relieve indigestion because they can digest only albumnious foods. There is one preparation that digests all classes of food, and that is Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It cures the worst cases of indigestion and gives instant relief, for it digests what you eat. Howard Gardner.

COLD STEEL OR DEATH.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis, by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jauntice. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure stomach and liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at C. E. Holton's drug store.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

THE ALDERMEN AND BARS.

Voter Offers Some Thoughts Regarding the Election of the First and the Power of the Latter.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

Although we may differ on the liquor question, some believing high license to be the solution of the liquor problem, others preferring the dispensary, and still others contending for prohibition, and while there is this difference among us, yet we are all agreed on one thing, and that is that the present growth and prosperity of our flourishing city shall not be retarded. Looking to this end then and realizing the sad but true fact that the liquor men have great power in electing our board of aldermen and mayor and that they will always sacrifice the city's interest for their own, let us see if we can not devise some way by which this liquor power can be eliminated from our midst. To this end then let us change our plan of election and the number of aldermen. The city's business has become not only very important, but very great. We now have twelve aldermen elected yearly who serve free, gratis, and of their services I have no complaint to make, for they do their duty faithfully. I would suggest that we elect our city officers for two years, and that instead of two aldermen from each ward we have only one and that we pay these six for their services something like $250 per year; also that three of these retire every two years; also that the people vote every two years whether liquor shall be sold in Greensboro or not, and that the aldermen simply carry out the wishes of the people in this matter. If the people vote for barrooms then the aldermen will have to grant them and if the people vote no barrooms then they can not grant them. In this way the responsibility will be taken off of the aldermen and the only thing they would pass on would be the fitness of applicants for bars in case of the election going for the barrooms. In this way the liquor men could have no personal interest in who should be an alderman, thereby curtailing this dangerous power in our municipal affairs.

If this plan seems feasible, would it not be best for the present board to refuse to grant any license for the present and let us see how no barrooms would work from now until the May election. Then the people could vote intelligently. Respectfully,

VOTER

A Verdict for $4,802.

The suit brought by Mr. Wagoner, asking the Southern for damages in the sum of $25,000 for the death of his son, caused by a switch engine several months ago, has just been completed, the jury to whom the case was given at 1.30 today returning at about 3:30 with a verdict for $4.802. Messrs. King and Kimball represented the Southern as in the other cases, and Major Chas. M. Stedman and Col. John A. Barringer the plaintiff.

The Tobacco Market.

To Business Men:—Be sure to mention to your country friends that tobacco is very high on the Greensboro market and ask them to bring us a load. It is because our old buyers have new orders, our manufacturers are all out in full force, and we also have several new buyers who have large orders. All this creates a demand which has sent prices way up higher than they have been before for several years. TOBACCO.
